Operable Wall Manufacturer Opens Third US Factory

Kwik-Wall Company has opened a new factory in Mount Pulaski, IL to meet customer demands and shorten production lead times.

Springfield, IL, January 16, 2023 – Kwik-Wall Company has opened another US factory in Mount Pulaski, Illinois to build their signature 2000 Series operable partitions. The new 40,000 sf facility is located about thirty minutes from their corporate offices in Springfield. This facility will increase total capacity by at least 50%, with expected capacity gains for their 3000 Series products as well.

Mike Hoyle, Kwik-Wall’s president and owner explains, “the new Mount Pulaski facility is a culmination of our vision to become the leading US-owned manufacturer of operable partitions. Having grown up in rural Illinois, I know the work ethic and dedication to quality you get from being a top employer in a small town. Our company’s roots run deep here, and we intend to build a world class operation in Mount Pulaski.”

The former Stahl’s furniture facility was renovated by Kwik-Wall and consists of finishing applicators and custom designed material handling equipment that speeds up assembly time for both gypsum- and steel-faced 2000 Series panels. “The new facility will really impact day-to-day production lead times and solidify Kwik-Wall’s position for commercial tenant fit out contractors,” says Jacob Erickson, VP-Sales & Marketing. “Speed to market with improved quality is the goal and we intend to meet our distributor’s needs for both!”

The new plant will be supervised by Nelson Rolon, a new Kwik-Wall hire who has more than a decade of plant supervision experience specific to the operable wall industry. “The Kwik-Wall engineers, tooling and maintenance teams have been outstanding in getting this plant up and running,” says Nelson Rolon. “The local officials and community have welcomed us and helped us achieve our hiring goals. We have been able to find a great workforce that is trained and ready to go here in 2023.”
